

WE ARE HIRING

Software Tester (m/f/d)

innoscripta is an international software company with a focus on cloud-based research and development software. We are an organically grown company from 1 employee with 10 years of experience in the market. We employ over 250 experts from all scientific areas. Over 2000 R&D projects have been successfully initiated by us in Germany.

Our proprietary saas solution „Innovation Management System“ assures efficient planning, launch and administration of R&D projects. It is specifically designed to make R&D collaboration more successful and we serve business clients with as many as 60.000 employees.

Be part of a fast growing international company, which values creativity and passion for beautiful and superior software products. You can use your skills first hand to develop services and features, which have a real impact on the sustainability and innovation of the future.

WHO WE ARE LOOKING FOR:

- You are a specialist in manual software testing with prior commercial experience
- You attach great importance to a customer focused and independent way of working
- You have a great affinity for software systems and an structured and precise way of working
- You are in very good command of written and spoken English
- You ideally have a completed degree in informatics, data science or similar background

WHAT WE OFFER:

- An exciting role to co-design products and features used by clients around the world
- Travel flatrate, work up to one month each year at any innoscripta office location
- Based on results take over more responsibility as team or group leader in an international multi-office
- A competitive salary and additional bonus rewards for high performance
- Learn more about our it department and dream team: it.innoscripta.com

YOUR TASKS:

- You design and create test scenarios and test cases
- You analyze, evaluate and document the test results
- You take care of manual and regression testing
- You are in charge of quality control to maintain highest standards in software development
- You are working with tools and environments like Click Up, GitLab, Postman, DevTools

ARE YOU INTERESTED? APPLY NOW!

Send us your full application documents to karriere@innoscripta.com